CC Pace recently conducted an independent survey of lenders and found that 2 out of 3 lenders are struggling ‘significantly’ with meeting the new TRID regulation. Lenders indicate they have had to ‘throw bodies at it’, temporarily re-structuring processes and other facets of their organization to keep up with the workload. Costs to produce have skyrocketed, closing is taking considerably longer, technology enhancements can’t move fast enough to close the gaps, and warehouse lines are starting to get locked up due to Investor discrepancies. In short, their inadequate preparation and lack of process redesign to meet TRID requirements have negatively impacted lenders’ efficiency, productivity and profitability.
